Eight-Hour Amendment Doomed Bit of Legislation. According to Congressmen.

READY WITH POINT OF ORDER

Clerks to Know Fate of Plan Before Adjournment Comes This Evening.

House today, Congressman Byrns of Tennessee, in charge of the legislative, executive and judicial bill, planned to dispose of that measure before adjournmentand this means the Borland eighthour rider, affecting Government clerks, at last is about to be con-

There are few controversial items in the remainder of the bill, and Mr. Byrns believes the House will become emin the fight over the Government clerks by the middle of the after-

Although members regard it bad form to férecast the opinion of a presiding officer on a point of order to be raised against any item in a pending bill, it can be said the general impression in the House today is that the Borland rider is a doomed bit of legislation.

That the presiding officer, Congress-man Crisp of Georgia will sustain the point of order, and thus kill the Bor-land provision for an eight-hour day for Government clerks is exceedingly

If Point Is Sustained.

When this point of order is sustained the fight of the Government clerks and their friends in Congress, as well as the American Federation of Labor, which has rendered valuable aid in creating centiment against such hasty legislation will have been won.

Although, it is understood, that Mr. Borland will offer a substitute para-graph if the paragraph in the bill is killed by a point of order, the belief among Congressmen in charge of the clerks fight is that such a course will unavailing

Congressmen Mondell, Austin, Hamill, Gallivan, and Smith (of Idaho) are prepared to argue that an eight-hour-day rider is not germane to an appropriation bill, even under the Holman rule, though it should be presented in several different forms.

though it should be presented in several different forms.

The principle of the issue is the same they say—ill-considered legislation on an appropriation bill and nothing actually to show that a reduction of Governmental expenses will be immediately accomplished.

To Be Within Rule.

To be within th Holman rule, they say, it must be shown conclusively that legislation retrenches expenditures-else it cannot have place on an annual sup-

"It will not be on the subject of the Horland rider," said Mr. Austin, "although I expect to be here and take parf in the debate on that matter later in the day."

Congressman Borland smilingly said the had no objection to Mr. Austin's processed speech on another topic. Mr.

he had no objection to Mr. Austin's proposed speech on another topic. Mr. Austin is one of the leaders in the fight against the Borland rider and will take part in the debate both on the point of order and on the merits of the rider itself—if the Borland provision ever comes to a vote.

Will Be Undoing.

All indications now are, however, that the point of order will be the undoing of the Borland provision. If this point is upheld the House will not vote on the eight-hour provision, but it will go out of the bill automatically.
Confidence is expressed that if the rider does come to a vote it will be decisively defeated.

Bisbie Will Filed.

The will of Horace V. Biabee, dated September 17, 1910, filed for probate to-day leaves his entire estate to his wife. Mrs. Mildred Mareet Bisbee, who is also named as executrix.

Former Secretary of War Garrison was in a jolly frame of mind when he left Secretary of War Baker's office vesterday after passing two hours of more "wising up" his successor on the duties of his office, Judge Garrison looked the picture of health, and said he never felt better in his life. He declined to answer any questions bearing on the Mexican at-uation, saying, "I am a master of the people and not a servant. I am in a diers to Do More Than Obey position now where I don't have to an swer questions, and I propose exercis-ing my constitutional rights."

Judge Garrison said he had received

In the letter, he said, former Secretary Bryan wrote, "In or out of office, I love you."
Although many stories were circulated that Secretary Bryan and Secretary Garrison did not "hit it off" so well in Cabinet meetings, the former Secretary of War said yesterday, "Bryan and I were always very close." When the newspaper men attempted to play on the word "close," Judge Garrison laughed heartily and said, "That's a hypothetical question."
The former Secretary said he wrote to Mr. Baker as soon as he heard of the latter's appointment, and volunteered to come to Washington to acquaint him with the duties of the office as well as to explain to him the unfinished business of the department.
Judge Garrison joked about his unceremonious exit from the Cabinet, and said he did not know what became of the preparedness speech which he wrote the day he resigned and which was to have been delivered at the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States last month.

The former Secretary admittedly coyly that the expression was not original, and added that investigation might diclose that Noah used it just before

The marked difference between the language of the Senate bill and that of the House bill in this respect is important, and probably will be the subject of much discussion on the floor.
